

Lisa Mantarro Moore, Consultant
National Center for Executive Leadership and School Board Development

Areas of Expertise

Communication Planning and Strategies for Communities, Elected Officials, and Non-Profits
Crisis Communications - Public Affairs Management | Campaign Management and Political Strategist
Effective Communication with Government Officials - Project Manager
Management of Relationships with Policymakers and Community Leaders
Solution-Oriented - Community Advocacy and Relations

Lisa Mantarro Moore has served her community in several various roles which include parent, advocate, community leader, project manager, and political professional. She has over 30 years of experience working with local governments, community projects, and non-profits. She has developed skills in managing and organizing diverse socio-economic, ethnic, and geographic communities, agriculture-based communities, and Latino communities, just to name a few.

As a political professional, Lisa has had the distinct privilege of serving as the District Director to California State Assemblymember Adam Gray for 10 years, and over 20 years of experience serving the United States House of Representatives including serving as the Deputy Chief of Staff to then-Congressman Dennis Cardoza and then-Congressman Gary Condit. She has developed extensive relationships throughout the Central Valley and is accustomed to working with a variety of communities on many issues for a positive resolution. Her skills also include managing and producing direct mail and digital communications. Mantarro Moore has developed the trust of community members and political leaders for both her discretion and candor.

In addition to her work on the political spectrum, Mantarro Moore has focused on the development and growth of several non-profits including the Family Justice Center of Stanislaus, where services are provided to those suffering family violence, trauma, abuse, and human trafficking. She also served several school districts as a communications consultant to assist their boards in outreaching their constituents and delivering messaging on actions before their bodies. Mantarro Moore has her own experience as a community servant serving on the Ceres City Council where she served as Vice Mayor. Her experiences during her term were extensive as the City lost an officer in the line of duty and had several staff changes for which she navigated the body.

Lisa Mantarro Moore is a graduate of CSU Stanislaus with a BA in Political Science and a concentration in Public Administration. She was recognized as the Ceres Citizen of the Year in 2012 and as the Ceres Volunteer of the Year in 2016. She was also honored as Outstanding Woman of the Year in 2018 by the Stanislaus County Commission for Women. Mantarro Moore has developed a strong reputation for serving as a voice for the community, speaking up for those that don't have a voice. Her ability to develop strong and meaningful relationships ensures that the needs of her clients and the community are both identified and met.